Knock on Wood!
Karen Kindley "97"

Pedagogue

TO THE CLASS OF 1976:

What a privilege to graduate as "76ers" on the nation's birthday! Just think that no high school students of this century have had or will have that opportunity, but you. Surely this is an honor which you will cherish.

The other side of your bicentennial "coin", however, bears great responsibility. It is your task to translate the pride of this year into action throughout your lifetime. YOU must continue to make this a nation of people dedicated to fair play, compassion, freedom of opportunity and preservation of the goals of those brave men who signed the Declaration of Independence. I urge you to write and sign your own personal Declaration of Goals, review them often and make them work.

Always be able to look back and say, "I did what was right."

Sincerely,

Fred C. Sales

Christmas Concert

December 12, 1975

*Christmas Concert
December 13, 1975*

Sue had a wrestling match with Mrs. Hopkins on the first day of kindergarten.

Mrs. Springer pulled down Glenn's pants and spanked him in first grade.

We had Pee Wee Olympics.

There was no talking during lunch at Assawompsett.

Everyone had braces.

There were fifteen swings for a hundred and twenty kids.

We played squareball.

Richard and Patti got married during recess.

Judy wet her pants.

We had pajama parties.

Brenda was as tall as everybody else.

Laurie had short hair.

Pat always threw up.

Ed taped Mrs. Cole yelling at her fourth grade writing class and got caught.

Niki, Doris, Vee, and Donnie were going to run away from fourth grade unless Mrs. Norris left ten candy bars by the boys jungle gym.

Remember When...

Diane knew all her times tables.

We had roller skating parties at Freetown Elementary.

All the girls wore nylons to the sixth grade banquet.

Theresa and Pat shot elastics at Mr. Merrit's head in science.

Wally showed Miss Hammel how to play feely-meely.

We never could keep a music teacher very long.

No one had the munchies.

Girls wore dresses.

Patty was never going to get married.

Andy always got in trouble.

We had to explain to Judy what an S.O.B. was.

Patti climbed out of the windows in Mrs. Morrisons class.

Paul got detentions for giving Mr. Mitchell crank phone calls.

Lee was sheriff of Boomtown.

Howie played the violin because he was in love with Diane.

Mr. Marshall's English class put on Romeo and Juliet.

We had to stand in the corner in Mr. Marshall's English class.

Robin and Sue inched across the stage to "Glow Worm" as glow worms.

Everyone met at the mall.

Fishnets were chic.

Army jackets were chic.

Judy had a purple fur dress.

Everyone had a crush on Dana.

We counted how many times Mrs. Esterbrooks and Miss Keavy said, "okay."

We had double sessions.

We were afraid of Mr. Mitchell.

Nancy and Ann were thrown out of the library for asking Mr. Brulotte if he wore a toupee.

Gina changed her shirt on mainstreet.

Lauren and Patti were old army buddies.

The big marshmallow fight happened.

Sue was at Pope park with nothing on.

Jimmy set fire to Pat's hair.

We saw sex movies in Mrs. Quelle's class.

Cindy was called "radioisotope."

Patti was called "Eve."

Lauren was called "gerbal."

We couldn't wait to go to high school.

1976 seemed so far away.

Seniors were men and women.

Freshmen were in love with the seniors.

We had to have lounge cards.

John dressed up as a pencil.

Everyone was sick before the Boston Garden game in ninth grade.

Everyone wore their jackets to school.

There was a sign up sheet in front of the girls and boys rooms.

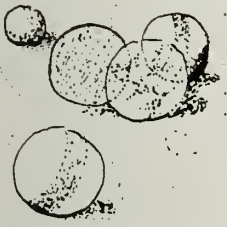

We raided the teacher's and the home ec. rooms.

Mr. Jorgenson told us about the submarine races.

Mr. Piasecki's gerbals kept getting loose.

Beezea and Eddy put all of Mr. Riley's yardsticks through the surface planer.

The sports boys and the freaks were going to fight.

Everyone went to everybody else's party.

Cheryl, Robin, Donna, and Bonnie went to horseneck and sat in the rain.

Pat knocked down the Virgin Mary.

Richard locked the key to his band locker in his band locker.

Sam wore a dress.

Doug lost his glasses in the lake.

Richard got gum stuck on him at yearbook.

Debbie broke her school ring twirling.

Steve threw a baton on the roof.

Patti's locker got decorated.

Carol pushed Amanda at the concert.

Beth laughed so hard in Mr. Rose's.

Lisa, Paul, Ann got kicked out of Mr. Furtado's.

We put pajamas on the typewriters.

We had sock hops.

We decorated the gym for concerts.

We won the prize on the 4th of July.

Shelley got her license.

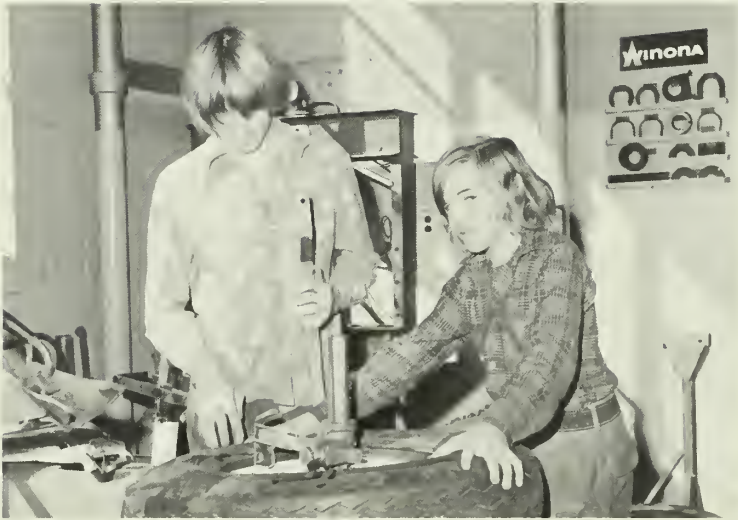

Mr. Greeson had short hair.

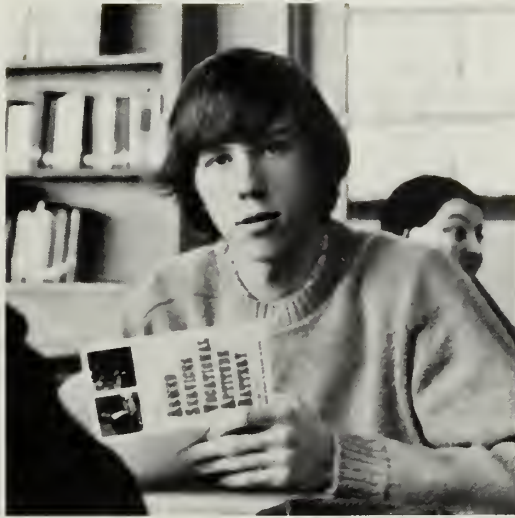

Someone used a lunch tray instead of a cookie sheet in home ec. and it melted in the oven.

The seniors streaked back from football practice.

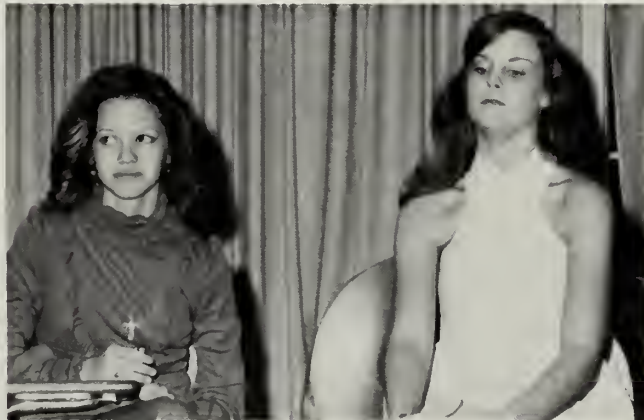

Freshmen were taller.

You've come a long way, baby.

This yearbook is an attempt to represent the activity and people of Apponequet, so that we can always look back and remember. Seventy-six is a memorable year to all of America. But to Apponequet seniors the relevance and memories are focused on our own history of the time spent here.

In graduation, we end our history at Apponequet and begin to make history on our own. Goodbye Apponequet and good luck to everyone!
